City to fund £1m cladding after Government u-turn

Two blocks need repair work

By Eva Astreinidou

OXFORD City Council needs to find £1million to pay for essential cladding to two of the city's tower blocks after the government withdrew its funding promise.

City bosses are 'outraged' by the u-turn on the original decision to pay for the work needed after two blocks failed fire safety tests.

Speaking to the Guardian, city councillor John Tanner said the money now has to be sourced by the council itself.

He said: "They will make arrangements only in circumstances where the city council cannot find the funds themselves. It is an outrage.

"The city council has acted responsibly and now the government also has to act responsibly."

The need to replace the rain-screen cladding on Windrush and Evenlode towers in Blackbird Leys came after the buildings failed a second round of new fire resistance tests that were carried out nationwide.

The tests were ordered following the disaster at Grenfell Tower in June in which more than 80 people were killed.

City council leader Bob Price said: "The government made a promise to fund replacement cladding in the immediate aftermath of the Grenfell disaster but has since done a u-turn and withdrawn that assurance.

"The Local Government Association is continuing to press the government to honour its commitments."

In August the city council said the works could take up to six months to complete due to the high level of demand across the country.

Cllr Price added: "[We have] been working closely with the suppliers of the cladding materials and the contractors who will install it.

"At this stage we are as confident as we can be that the timetable that has been agreed will be achieved."

City councillor and board member for housing Mike Rowley said: "We will replace the ram shield as soon we can get a finalised cost and the replacement panels. No-one knows exactly when that will be."

Oxfordshire Fire Service had carried out inspections of all the tower blocks in the city including another three which did not fail the second round of testing.

The total number of buildings nationally that have failed tests is up to 228.

City is charging towards cleaner greener future

By George Welch

OXFORD is to help drive the world to a greener and petrol-less future by installing electric vehicle charging points across the city

The city and county councils have joined forces to install 100 charging points in what is believed to be the largest on street charging trial in the world.

Oxford motorists could help shape international policy with Oxford University reporting to the government how the new technology is being used.

University chiefs said the scheme has "global scientific significance"

The trial is starting with 30 stations which will come online in October and be available to use for 12 months.

Ten of these will be available for the general public 10 for Oxford s Co-wheels Car Club vehicles and the remaining 10 for individual households

The leader of Oxfordshire County Council, Cllr Ian Hudspeth, said: "The pilot element of the project is a learning experience– identifying the best charging solutions for different situations and locations and using our assets in better, smarter ways will help minimise costs.

"We hope to take what we have learnt from this project and look at how we can support on street charging across the whole of Oxfordshire."

The city council chose the charging locations after calling for Oxford residents who either owned or wanted to own an electric vehicle to come forward.

Leader of Oxfordshire County Council Ian Hudspeth testing out the technology in Littlemore, Oxford

Twenty volunteers will provide feedback on the chargers as part of the trial

According to Cllr John Tanner, the city council s board member for a Clean and Green Oxford, the project "will help us prepare for the future" as, by 2027 more people are expected to be buying electric cars than petrol or diesel.

The Green Party's leader on the city council, Cllr David Thomas, welcomed the announcement.

He said: "It has taken some time, but Oxford is finally entering the age of the electric vehicle.

"This new infrastructure will encourage more electric vehicle ownership, which will help tackle Oxford s appalling air quality issues and reduce carbon emissions."

The trial could also result in the expansion of the city s Co-wheels Car Club which provides members with low emission hybrid and electric cars on a pay-as-you go basis

Managing director Richard Falconer described the project as "a brilliant opportunity" for people to reduce the impact on the environment by using a zero emission car.

Extra buses being introduced to routes running across West Oxfordshire

MORE buses are set to run in West Oxfordshire from this Sunday, Stagecoach has announced.

Three routes will see more services run, with changes also being made to four others.

The Gold S1 between Carterton Witney Eynsham and Oxford will have extra evening, morning and Sunday buses while the Gold S2 will also make an extra journey from Carterton on weekday and Saturday evenings.

The 233 connecting Burford, Carterton, Minster Lovell, Witney Long Hanborough and Woodstock will now run every 30 minutes Mondays to Saturdays along with later journeys in both directions.

Timetable changes have also been made to the S7 15 and 19 routes while the 11 will see additional school day journeys introduced.

Martin Sutton, Stagecoach Oxfordshire's managing director, said. "The timetables for many of our services in West Oxfordshire will change with extra evening and Sunday buses on service S1 to meet the increase in demand expected with the opening of the new Westgate Centre.

"We wanted to make the improvements in time for the new school and college terms and ensure we re prepared for the Westgate opening, which happens in October"

Scientist's flower image highlights heart disease

AN Oxford University scientist has been named as the runner up in an image competition highlighting the research done by the British Heart Foundation (BHF)

Dr Nicoletta Surdo's image Flower from the heart was deemed by judges of BHF's Reflections of Research competition to be this year's second most impressive photograph.

It depicts the muscle fibres that make up the chambers of a mouse's heart, with the fibres transformed into the likeness of a rose using fluorescent dyes.

Dr Surdo and her team are studying heart failure as part of efforts to find a cure, with the hope that understanding more about the molecules involved in heart failure will allow new drugs to be developed.

Another of Dr Surdo s images, Butterfly in a cell', was highly commended, with the magnetic photograph showing a mirrored image of a mitochondria in a living mouse

Simon Gillespie, chief executive of the BHF, said. "Science relies increasingly on ever more sophisticated imaging techniques to help us to see the cellular and molecular processes that conspire to create disease.

"So whilst this competition is all about the picture, it s the story behind each one that will save and transform lives."

OAP a victim of 'cowardly man'

By George Welch

AN Oxford man who dragged an elderly woman to the floor and left her face down in the middle of the road after stealing her bag has been sentenced to more than three years in prison.

Gavin Newbold, of Salesian Gardens, was sentenced at Oxford Crown Court on Friday after pleading guilty to robbery, attempted theft and possession of Class A drugs.

On July 19 at around 12.10pm a woman in her late 70s was walking along New Road in the centre of Oxford.

Newbold approached the elderly victim from behind and grabbed hold of her bag in an attempt to steal it.

The woman held onto it in a desperate attempt to stop the theft, prompting the 38-year-old to pull it with such force to pull her to the ground.

He then fled with her belongings as she lay face down in the middle of the road.

The victim sustained significant injuries to her face, thumb, wrist and feet as well as the loss of a front tooth.

She was treated at John Radcliffe Hospital in Headington. She has been discharged but is still recovering from her injuries.

CCTV showed Newbold in the city centre seemingly watching people to target. Footage from July 19 also showed the man attempting to steal a wallet from a man in his 80s.

Gavin Newbold has been jailed for more than three years

Newbold was arrested on July 20, when he was found to be in possession of class A substances.

He was charged the following day.

Investigating officer Detective Constable Neil Rudge, of the Investigation Hub based at Oxford, said: "Newbold is a cowardly man who was observed on CCTV trying to target elderly and vulnerable people in order to steal from them.

"He initially denied the offences and it was only the overwhelming evidence that has led him to plead guilty before the case came to trial, however he has never shown any remorse for what he has done.

"The victim of the robbery is still in pain due to her injuries and she may never fully recover."

Aimee Fearn, next to Charli XCX on the far right of picture

Charli's angels star in new video

AN 'angel' from Oxford made a cameo in a star-studded video by British singer Charli XCX after winning the ultimate fan prize.

Aimee Fearn, 22, also rubbed shoulders with the likes of Stormzy, Diplo, Joe Jonas and Tom Daley, as part of a VIP weekend in London.

She and four other lucky fans appeared in the video for the pop singer's most recent single 'Boys' after taking part in a newly launched competition by Microsoft Rewards.

The winners were whisked off to an exclusive video set in east London and spent the day with the star filming the video.

Talking about the experience, Aimee said: "I couldn't believe it when I was picked as one of the winners. It was very surreal meeting her and [is] an experience I will never forget.

"And now seeing myself in her star-studded video alongside such A-listers is so crazy."

Speaking about her fans' cameo appearance, Charli XCX said: "I'm really proud of my new video and having some of my angels feature in it totally takes it to the next level.

"The guys did a great job on set, and totally got everything I asked them to do. I really hope they had the best day."

'Creeper' stole Audi after break-in

A MAN from Oxford has pleaded guilty to breaking into a house in Wheatley and stealing an Audi Q3 parked on the driveway.

Philip Harper, 40, of Grebe Close, admitted to charges of theft and burglary at Oxford Magistrates' Court last Tuesday.

At around 4.20am on August 11, Harper broke into the house in Leyshon Road and stole car keys while a family of three inside were asleep, before driving off in the vehicle.

Detective Constable Charles Boshell said: "This forms part of an ongoing investigation into creeper-style burglaries where vehicles are specifically targeted.

"Officers will continue to pursue every individual involved in these most intrusive of crimes."

Harper is due to be sentenced at Oxford Crown Court on September 22.

Brookes looks to build new halls

PLANS to demolish part of the old Cowley Barracks and build accommodation for 885 university students in its place have been submitted to Oxford City Council.

Oxford Brookes University is looking to build the student halls on land currently occupied by former barracks buildings adjacent to James Wolfe Road.

The current buildings would be replaced with 885 student rooms café, shop, launderettes and communal areas.

The land in question is opposite Paul Kent Hall, another student residence owned by Oxford Brookes.

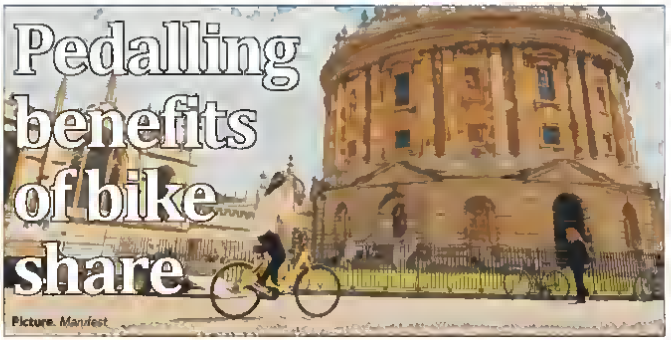
If given approval, the new residence would be run by student accommodation operators Unite Students.

In a letter included with the application Oxford Brookes' director of estates Sue Holmes said the university is planning to increase its accommodation places by 1,500 over the next five years.

She continued: "Purpose built, managed halls of residence is a preferred option for the university as it helps meet an increasing demand for student accommodation while relieving pressure on the local housing needs.

"This has become increasingly challenging in recent years and whilst we have continued to expand the accommodation available this has not been sufficient to meet the increasing demand."

Pedalling benefits of bike share



Picture: Mandest

By Eva Astreinidou

AROUND 100 yellow bikes filled Oxford city centre as part of an effort to make cycling accessible to all, but the plan did not go without a hitch.

The station-free bike sharing platform ofo launched last week in St Giles and Broad Street.

But there were reports of misuse as some users left the bikes on pavements and outside of the dedicated parking areas.

As the station-free bike sharing app launched, Oxford City Council announced there would be a code of conduct to make sure ofo bikes, and those from other potential providers are well maintained.

A representative said: "The code of conduct is being launched as there are currently no national licensing rules in place that govern dockless bikes."

The code would also ensure there is a strong mechanism for reporting bike faults and that bikes are not left in dangerous locations or where they could cause an obstruction.

Speaking last week, city councillor Louise Upton said: "Oxford is a leading cycling city and bike sharing when implemented well can get more people cycling, improving health and reducing the problems of congestion and air pollution. We look forward to seeing how this new form of bike sharing develops in Oxford."

ofo's UK operations director Joseph Seal-Driver said there is a 'learning curve' for users to understand the proper way to engage with the system and that he expects misuse to decrease as users become aware of how the systems works.

He said: "We encourage our riders to park bikes in accordance with local laws and through our app, [where] riders can clearly see where their closest parking area is.

"We strongly encourage users to comply with our terms of use so that residents can benefit from having ofo in Oxford."

The eye-catching yellow bikes are hired through a smartphone app for 50p for 30 minutes and can be picked up and dropped off anywhere bike parking is allowed.

Once their ride is complete, users simply close the lock to complete their ride and make it available for the next person to use.

Revamp to start

WORK is set to start on a £170,000 revamp of the South Oxford Community Centre.

It will see the Lake Street centre's dojo completely refurbished, as well as installing drainage for the first time, new toilets and changing rooms, new doors, windows, heating and electrics, and ramps for disabled access.

Oxford City Council is providing £120,000 of funding, with the rest coming from a grant. Work is due to start early next month, and be completed by the end of the year.

City council leader Bob Price said: "The annex to the main building has never been modernised, and this refurbishment project has been the centre association's main focus for nearly 10 years."

Three cases a week referred to police

Report child abuse when you suspect it

By Adam Flinn

AN average of three reports of child neglect are being referred to police and social services in Oxfordshire every week by the NSPCC

The child protection charity said its helpline dealt with 162 reports in this way following contact from concerned adults in the county between April 2016 and March 2017 in figures published last week.

This was on top of a further 28 contacts requesting advice about a child thought to be facing neglect.

The findings have been revealed in the NSPCC's report 'How safe are our children?' which calls on the government to commission a study into the extent of child neglect and abuse across the UK.

Peter Wanless chief executive of the NSPCC, said "Neglect can have severe and long-lasting consequences for children, and can also be an indicator of other forms of abuse.

"This is why it is so important for anyone suspecting a child of being neglected to contact the NSPCC helpline so we can alert the authorities to quickly step in and help those in need."

Common signs of neglect the NSPCC urges people to look out for include being left alone for a long time, untreated injuries, and living in an unsuitable home environment.

One family member of a suspected neglected child, who didn't want to be named said: "I am concerned for the safety of a little boy he does not seem to be getting adequate care at home

"His mother doesn't seem interested in looking after him. He is regularly being left unsupervised and I am worried that he could seriously hurt himself at home alone because I know it has happened before."

Mr Wanless added "At the same time, it is vital we understand the true nature and scale of child neglect in the UK so we can collectively tackle the fundamental causes

"Therefore, a government commissioned, nationwide prevalence study on child abuse and neglect needs to be conducted and sooner rather than later"

Centre's £5k gift to carry on

A COMMUNITY centre has received a £5 000 donation to allow them to continue providing essential activities to residents during its rebuild.

The Hill Youth and Community Centre, in Bretch Hill, will be demolished and replaced with a new facility as part of an £800 000 revamp.

But the funding from social landlord Sanctuary Housing has enabled the facility to temporarily relocate.

The centre, which hosts a range of activities has now moved to the Bradley Arcade shopping parade until the new centre is completed.

The Hill has been providing a reduced programme since the roof of its main hall was damaged in 2013.

Sanctuary has donated land for a community garden and provided outside facilities, including football nets and a play area for small children.

Neighbourhood partnerships manager Kate Winstanley said: "We've been supporting The Hill for a number of years now and have seen the positive effect the groups have on all those who attend, we're delighted to have been able to provide them with £5,000 to continue this during their temporary move."

Cherwell District Council, which owns the building, will contribute £400,000, with the remaining funding coming from Sport England, local charities and groups.

Cllr Kieron Mallon, the council's lead member for brighter futures in Banbury, said: "We are grateful to Sanctuary for their generous donation. This will help us to continue to provide activities to the community while work on the new centre takes place."

A PRIMARY school near Wantage has been praised for its "outstanding leadership and management" following its latest inspection.

St Nicholas Primary School in East Challow was given an overall rating of 'good' by inspectors from SIAMS, the Anglican and Methodist schools' equivalent of Ofsted.

Inspectors highlighted the "vision, passion and drive" of the headteacher Andrew Browne and staff to create a nurturing school community, and that families feel supported.

Areas to improve included developing pupils' understanding of Christianity and providing opportunities for pupils to plan and lead worship.

Philip Harrison, chairman of the school's local governing body said: "We are obviously delighted with the outcome of this report. It is an accurate reflection of our wonderful school, our children and parents, our staff and our very supportive community.

"Our priests John Durant and Alec Gill and the hugely popular Open the Book team from St Nicholas Church play an important part in the life of the school, and we are lucky to enjoy the energy they bring to sharing the Bible stories with us."

St Nicholas is a member of the Vale Academy Trust, which is also responsible for King Alfred's Academy in Wantage, Larkmead School in Abingdon, and four other primaries.

'Something special' steams into station

By George Welch

THOUSANDS of rail buffs enjoyed the bank holiday weekend by taking a ride on one of the world's most famous locomotives.

The Flying Scotsman was in action at Didcot Railway Centre on Saturday, Sunday and Monday providing rides in vintage carriages on the main demonstration line.

It's the first time the locomotive has visited Didcot since 2005 having only returned to action in January after a decade of major works.

Didcot Railway Centre's front of house manager Tim Nicholls described the bank holiday fun as a "fantastic weekend of entertainment".

Various other activities, including live music and a flypast, added to a memorable weekend – but nothing stole the limelight from the star of the show.

Commercial manager and trustee Ann Middleton, who was also the train guard for a VIP ride on Friday, said the Scotsman's visit is the highlight of her 32-year involvement at the museum.

She said: "It's fantastic to welcome the locomotive back – we are really thrilled.

"It's probably the most famous steam engine in the world. You can feel the power and it's nice to smell her."

She added: "There was not so much interest shown last time because it was not as famous."

On Sunday and Monday one of the fastest steam locomotives ever, the Gresley A4 class Pacific 60009 Union of South Africa, made an appearance.

Mr Nicholls hopes the event will inspire future generations of rail fans.

He said: "We want people to see what we've got here and inspire them for a return visit or even volunteering and helping out in future.

"If the younger generation enjoy themselves so much they want to take up a career we can have them volunteering in our workshop.

"If people want this kind of thing to continue we need the younger generation to be involved.

"The centre is 50 years old this year and if it's going to last another 50 years the people who set it up aren't going to be around."

Speaking on Friday, Mr Nicholls added, "There's a tangible excitement in the air. There's a definite sense of 'this is something special'."

20,000 Zambian orphans helped in student's name

By Adam Flinn

A CHARITY is marking 20 years of supporting orphaned and vulnerable children in Zambia with a celebration in Witney this Saturday.

Cecily's Fund was set up on September 2, 1997 following the death of 19-year old Cecily Eastwood, a student from Stonesfield, in a car accident in Zambia earlier that year.

Over the last 20 years the charity has helped improve the lives of more than 20,000 children by sending them to school, offering them training and delivering life-saving health information.

And on Saturday a celebration is being held at St Mary's Church to recognise the good work that's been done over the last two decades, and to remember Cecily.

Her mum Alison said: "Cecily would be so proud of what has been achieved.

"Her fund continues to give hope to children in Zambia who need it most."

Cecily had been teaching at a school in Zambia's Copperbelt region during her gap year when the accident happened. Part of her work saw her run homework clubs for orphans in her spare time.

Many of the children supported by Cecily's Fund have gone on to higher education, with some becoming teachers, business owners and engineers.

It is thanks to the efforts of more than 200 donors in Oxfordshire that the charity has managed to achieve this from the initial £6,500 raised at Cecily's funeral in 1997.

Cheryl Hooper, director of Cecily's Fund, said: "It is a humbling testament to the human spirit that a tiny charity such as Cecily's Fund has transformed communities and given life-changing opportunities for orphans in Zambia from our small base in Witney.

"Over the last 20 years, the charity's work has resulted in helping over 20,000 orphans and vulnerable children get an education as a route out of poverty.

"None of this could be achieved without the loyalty of our hundreds of supporters, many who live in West Oxfordshire and who continue to believe in us."

Exhibition to show Lewis Carroll's pictures of Alice as a woman

By George Welch

PHOTOGRAPHS of the girl who inspired Alice's Adventures in Wonderland will be exhibited alongside images of her as an older woman for the first time.

Oxford academic Lewis Carroll, whose real name was Charles Lutwidge Dodgson, photographed his neighbour Alice Liddell, daughter of the Dean of Christ Church, as a girl in the 1850s.

The mathematician also photographed her as an adult – and now the images of her as a child and as a woman have been brought together for the first time.

They will be shown in the National Portrait Gallery's exhibition Victorian Giants: The Birth of Art Photography.

Alice, who died in 1934 aged 82 was Carroll's muse for his 1865 fantasy novel Alice's Adventures in Wonderland.

Alice Liddell, pictured in 1958 and on June 25, 1870
Pictures National Portrait Gallery

Phillip Prodger, head of photographs at the gallery, said: "Much has been written about the relationship between Carroll and Alice.

"We will never know exactly how Carroll himself felt about his subjects, and there is no doubt he developed deep personal attachments with many of his sitters.

"Nevertheless, Carroll nearly always photographed his children with their parents present, and no claims of impropriety were ever made in his lifetime.

"For Victorian artists, children represented the blank slate of humanity – the potential to experience pure thought and feeling before the corruptions of modern life intervened."

He added that Carroll helped "forever change the thinking about photography and its expressive power", saying: "These are pictures that inspire and delight."

The exhibition includes the work of Julia Margaret Cameron (1815-79), Oscar Rejlander (1813-75) and Lady Clementina Hawarden (1822-65) as well as Carroll (1832-98).

The exhibition in London runs from March 1 to May 20, 2018.

Dead dog discovered dumped in shopping trolley in stream

THE body of a dead dog has been found dumped on top of a shopping trolley in an Oxford stream.

A member of the public spotted the badly decomposing remains of the small dog near a bridge over Northfield Brook in Marjorams Close, Blackbird Leys, on August 14.

The dog was not microchipped and had no identification tag, and the RSPCA has begun an investigation to find out what happened.

RSPCA inspector Jaime Godfrey, who removed the dog from the stream, said: "When I arrived and saw the body it made me feel quite upset as the body was quite rotten and the smell was very unpleasant.

"It is not clear at this stage how this dog has died but it would have been very upsetting for anyone who saw him laid across the overturned shopping trolley in the stream.

"I'm concerned about the circumstances surrounding the dog's death and would like to hear from anyone who may know what has happened or where he has come from."

Anyone with information is asked to contact the RSPCA's appeal line on 0300 123 8018.

Parliament hearing set for noise levels on A34

By Adam Flinn

A CAMPAIGN by residents living near the A34 in Wolvercote to reduce noise pollution from the road has been taken to parliament.

Oxford West and Abingdon MP Layla Moran has asked the transport secretary Chris Grayling to monitor noise levels between the Botley junction and Peartree flyover.

It comes two years after more than 700 people signed a petition urging Oxford City Council and Oxfordshire County Council to backplans to install sound barriers along that stretch.

Ms Moran said: "People living in Wolvercote are understandably frustrated at the lack of action by Highways England – which is responsible for the management of the A34 – since they first raised the issue of noise disturbance.

"A professional survey of noise levels in neighbouring homes over a period of weeks and months would provide the evidence campaigners need to push Highways England to come up with a proper plan to tackle the problem.

"I'll continue to support local residents and to keep up the pressure on the Department for Transport and Highways England to act."

Layla Moran MP has raised a question in parliament

Wolvercote resident Rob Whitty submitted the petition to the two councils in the spring of 2015.

In his speech to the city council at the time, Mr Whitty described the "invasive noise that we face on a daily and nightly basis" and the "detrimental" effect it has on the health of Oxford residents.

Mr Whitty also estimated that the cost of installing the sound barriers at being in the region of £700,000.

Sound barriers have already been installed on the A34 through Botley where a 50mph speed limit is also in place. They have also been built on parts of the M40 in south Oxfordshire.

Ms Moran's question in full is: "To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will monitor noise levels affecting residents living near the A34 in Wolvercote between the Peartree flyover and the Botley junction."

A formal response is expected from the Department for Transport sometime next month.

Youngsters put their minds into helping others

A YOUTH programme has raised over £1,600 to help prevent and tackle mental health issues.

The annual National Citizen Service (NCS) which runs over the summer holidays encourages youngsters to gain various skills including social action and this year the group worked with local charity Oxfordshire Mind.

As part of the project, NCS Abingdon delivered activities and outreach work helping raise awareness and funds for the charity.

The students organised a week where they sold cakes at market stalls in Abingdon and Oxford, hosted a tea party and started conversations around mental wellbeing with passers-by.

Knowles praised the students

He said "[We recognise] the significant deterioration in younger people's mental health in the UK and having local NCS groups start a conversation on mental wellbeing is a step in the right direction. We believe a rigorous preventative approach is required, and this is currently missing. We want to help people who are unwell – and we'd like even more to stop people getting ill.

"We are currently working with younger people, schools, parents and teachers to develop what we believe could be the best preventative programme in the country. The money raised will enable us to run pilot programmes in schools in Oxfordshire to improve the approach."

Under 25s urged to go out and exercise

YOUNG people in Oxfordshire have become the indoor generation, according to a recent survey.

The Hill End Trust report claims young people aged under 25 spend an average of only six to nine hours outside per week, while adults (25+) said they enjoyed the outdoors for at least 15 hours when they were children.

Even new older people spend less time sat in front of a screen, despite adults being more likely to use a screen all day everyday for work.

The survey revealed that adults are in front of a screen for 15-20 hours a week compared to 20-30 hours for youngsters.

Further only six in 10 young people 'strongly agreed' that spending time outdoors is enjoyable, compared to 79 per cent of over 25 year-olds.

Hill End CEO Selby Dickinson said: "These findings confirm a widely felt trend that young people are adopting more indoor, sedentary lifestyles.

"It makes our role as one of the few access points to nature and 'the great outdoors' even more important."

The charity which operates a 65-acre outdoor centre near Farmoor commissioned the research to help shape its new strategy having become an independent charity in July. It was previously run by Oxfordshire County Council.

Taking a brisk walk for 10 minutes every day is advised

Public Health England has claimed Oxfordshire's adults are at an unnecessary risk of cancer, heart disease and poor mental health because they're not exercising enough.

The report, released last week, claims just 23.4 per cent of over 18s in the county manage to clock up half an hour of heartbeat-raising exercise each week.

PHE has launched a campaign encouraging people to take a brisk 10 minutes walk every day.

Great Celebrations for Super Exam results across county

Students across Oxfordshire picked up their GCSE results last week, George Welch and Eva Astreinidou got out their pens and paper to find out how they did

Pupils from Burford School, right and Headington School's Nina Todres, Ella Gauci and Grainne Morgan wave their results joyfully

PUPILS' sighs of relief could be heard all round Oxfordshire as they lined up to hear how they fared in their GCSEs.

Scores of secondary school pupils found out their exam results after five years of hard work and changes to the grading system for some subjects.

English literature, English language and maths are now marked on a 9-1 basis, with 9 being the highest.

In Abingdon, Larkmead School celebrated its best ever results.

Across English, maths and science there was at least a 19 per cent increase in the number of students achieving a 9-4/A*-C grade.

In a statement last Thursday a school representative said: "We are delighted to report that both our A Level results and our GCSEs represent the school's best ever results both individually and combined."

Fitzharrys School, also in Abingdon, announced they achieved a new record with 63 per cent of pupils being awarded five or more A* C grades, or 9-4 under the new system.

Further afield in Oxford, pupils at Headington School celebrated impressive results.

Out of 120 girls, 11 achieved 10 or more A*s, while an impressive 47 girls, nearly 40 per cent of the year group, achieved at least 10 A*s or As.

A total of 49.3 per cent of all grades were A*s, while over 80 per cent were at A* or A.

Headteacher Caroline Jordan said: "I am absolutely delighted for each of our girls, who have worked incredibly hard."

At west Oxfordshire's Burford School, the pupils celebrated results which put the school in the top 20 per cent of all schools nationally.

Twenty six per cent of all grades were A*/A, with 25 students achieving seven or more A*/A and 19 students achieving eight or more A*/A.

In addition, five students achieved 11 A*/A grades.

Headteacher Kathy Haig said: "The GCSE results this year are once again excellent and show the tremendous effort that our students have made.

"This is a particularly pleasing set of results as the new GCSEs in both English language and literature and maths are so much more rigorous."

At Didcot-based UTC, 64 per cent of students achieved a grade 4 or above in English and Maths.

Owain Johns, the school principal, said: "We are extremely pleased with this first set of GCSE results. The exceptionally strong maths and separate science results reflect the hard work and dedication of both students and staff in attaining a robust and secure foundation for our pupils' secondary education."

Cabinet member for public health and education, Councillor Hilary Hibbert-Biles, said: "On results day it is our job to acknowledge the hard work and commitment that our young people routinely show, and the dedication of our teaching staff."

She added: "If you don't get the GCSE grades you're hoping for or are simply not sure what to do next, you can rest assured there will be a place in learning guaranteed for you in September.

"Our simple message to young people is not to panic - there are plenty of opportunities out there."

Nationally, the number of GCSE entries receiving grade A (or 7 under the new system) or above has fallen 0.5 per cent compared with last year.

New GCSE grades explained

- The new numbered grades have only been used for English language, English literature and maths for this year
- They rank from nine (the highest grade) to one (the lowest grade), with U remaining as ungraded
- Nine and eight can be considered the equivalent to an A* in the old system
- Seven to four cover the old A, C grades with three, two and one reflective of a D, E, F or G
- The numbered system will gradually be introduced across all GCSE subjects with them all expected to have made the switch in two years' time

Cranford House girls were rewarded for their hard work with 'excellent' grades

We did it! Pupils jump for joy at results

PUPILS at Wallingford's Cranford House jumped with joy as they collected their 'exceptional' results.

The youngsters gathered to hear their long-awaited grades at the school last Thursday.

Seventeen girls from Wallingford and the surrounding villages amassed 101 passes between them, with almost 90 per cent of all grades being A*/B for a second year running.

Speaking on results day, headteacher Dr James Raymond said: "These are an excellent collection of results that reflect the hard work, dedication and determination of our fabulous Year 11s. We are very proud of them and they richly deserve all of their success."

In a statement the school announced that they are 'pleased to enjoy continued strength in core subjects'.

Seventy-seven per cent of all grades in triple science were achieved at A*/A and the mathematicians achieved 31 per cent of all results at the new grade 8 or 9.

In modern foreign languages pupils scored 98 per cent A*/B, with 68 per cent of grades at A*/A for all three languages.

In humanities, 67 per cent achieved A*/A and 71 per cent of music pupils achieved an A*/A.

Dr Raymond added: "This is a tremendous achievement, particularly for a non-selective school like ours which welcomes pupils of all abilities. I'm particularly pleased, in the context of the changes to the curriculum and grading in mathematics and English."

Impressive results all round

STUDENTS have been celebrating their hard work and determination with impressive GCSE results.

Last Thursday pupils across the county ripped open envelopes containing their results delighting parents, teachers and themselves.

This year some GCSE papers in England were graded numerically on a scale from 9 to 1.

Bicester's The Cooper School said 70 per cent of students achieved five or more 4+ grades, including English and Maths, the equivalent of the old A*-C

And all GCSE students got five or more 1-9 grades the same as A*-G

Headteacher Ben Baxter said, "I am delighted at the success of our Year 11 students again. Despite the increasing demands of the new GCSES our students and staff have risen to the substantial challenges."

Among the successes was Tom Smythe who got one A, eight A* and one A, Alice Daniel who received one A, seven A*, two A, Macy Byfield who achieved one A, five A*, four A, and Anna Webb, pictured, who achieved one A, four A*, six A.

Banbury Academy said its "fantastic results" were "down to the sheer hard work and resilience of students and staff"

Twins Mary and Elizabeth achieved 19 grades at A and A* between them, and the music and textiles departments saw all students achieve A*-C grades

Lord Williams's School, in Thame, said 73 per cent of students achieved five or more higher grades – the equivalent of A*-C including English and Maths.

Headteacher David Wybron said: "The examinations are new harder and the changes imposed on schools have been introduced very hastily These are new examinations and there aren't any benchmarks. However, what we can say is that the overall results are very impressive and so many of our students have achieved outstanding results."

At Chipping Norton School, 41 students, more than a quarter of pupils sitting exams achieved five or more A*-A – the new measurement is 9-7 grades.

Headteacher Simon Duffy said, "These results reflect the real quality of our students and their teachers Such outstanding outcomes do not occur by chance and the hard work that I have seen over the past two years has clearly paid off."

Nearby Kingham School said 48 per cent of pupils gained A* to A grades, and a school best was achieved when 71 per cent achieved A* to B and 91 per cent of pupils got A* to C grades.

Headmaster Nick Seward said the results were "a tremendous testament" to teachers and pupils

Pupil's dedication to study reaps results

Chinese student had to learn English first

STARTING at a new school is a daunting time for anyone—but for a girl who didn t speak a word of English this task was a little more frightening.

Xin Ying Chen admitted she was freaking out the day before enrolling at Didcot Girls School three years ago the same day after travelling nearly 6,000 miles from south eastern China.

The girl from Fujian, on the Chinese side of the Taiwan Strait worked as hard as she possibly could, devoting three hours a day to learn English and even turning down a holiday back home to attend revision classes instead.

The 17-year old was overjoyed when she opened her results slip on Thursday to discover her commitment had resulted in a grade 9 2A* and 5As.

She said, "I was freaking out last night and I couldn't sleep but now I feel really happy and delighted. I even had a dream that I failed!"

Xin Ying Chen with exams managar Rebecca Keene

The Ladygrove resident, who will stay on to study A Level maths further maths and chemistry (and maybe physics), can now celebrate after a "scary" three years

She added. "I learnt some English in China but it's not useful and it was really formal so you can't use it. I was freaking out because I didn't know anyone and I couldn't communicate in English.

"It was scary and I had no friends. My biggest challenge was to get on with people and to learn something so different."

Xin Ying moved to Didcot with her parents, who set up the Sunrise Chinese takeaway in Broadway, when she was 14

And her teachers couldn't contain their delight when she collected her results.

Deputy headteacher Tom Goodenough said: "It's remarkable, just unbelievable. It's a tribute to sheer hard work and commitment – she's put in 100 per cent since she arrived. She's a genuine inspiration."

Exams and admission manager Rebecca Keene added: "The first time I met Xin Ying was in reception the day after getting off the plane. We had to put quite a lot of support in for her because she didn't speak a word of English but she worked so hard."

A credit to the school

PUPILS at King Alfred's Academy celebrated top marks despite a 'challenging' climate of change, according to the school.

Teachers at the Wantage school waited in anticipation to see how their students would perform in the subjects marked under a new grading system and if they would progress into sixth form starting in September

Headteacher Jo Halliday said. "All this success has been achieved during a time of huge transition at King Alfred's Academy, great turbulence in the education system and a year of personal challenge for many students and staff

"They are a credit to the school and the community."

In figures published the same day, the school said that under the new grading system over 45 per cent of pupils were awarded an 8, otherwise a high A.

For GCSE English, one of the key courses in the new system,

Ruth Harris, Harrison Goodman, Daisy Patto and below, Edward Record and Hannah Hooker

73 5 per cent of students achieved the government's benchmark of grade 4 and above, while 65 per cent of students achieved that result in maths

Overall, 61 per cent of students achieved grades in the 9-4 bracket in both maths and English.

In total 27 students achieved seven or more A or A* grades

Students Benedict Hutchinson, Nathan Edwards, Harrison Goodman, Hannah Hooker Freya Royan and Kate Strange all achieved more than four A* grades

£500k helps solar farm shine

By George Welch

A COMMUNITY OWNED solar farm is powering ahead after securing a £500 000 cash boost.

Southill Solar, located in the grounds of the Cornbury Estate near Charlbury, will use the money loaned from the district council to fund its start-up costs.

With its 17300 solar panels, the development, operated by Southill Community Energy, became operational last November and generates 4.5MW of energy.

This is enough to power 1,100 homes – equivalent to all the properties in its nearest parishes Charlbury, Finstock and Fawler.

Cllr Toby Morris, cabinet member for resources at West Oxfordshire District Council, said: "This is an excellent investment – Southill Solar is ethical and owned by local shareholders as well as providing sustainable power for the next 25 years."

As well as generating green electricity the solar farm will also be planted with native plant species, including wildflowers, to attract wildlife while a solar powered beehive has already been introduced.

Tim Crisp director at Southill Solar said: "This financial support by WODC is a great example of a local authority partnering with community initiatives.

"It will help us deliver surplus funds to other low-carbon community projects faster than otherwise would have happened."

The council's cabinet member for the environment, Cllr Carol Reynolds said: "Southill Solar is a fantastic scheme with real benefits for the local community and the environment.

"We are delighted to be able to support it."

Southill Solar will be dismantled in 2041 following its 25-year lifespan and the land will be returned to its original agricultural state.

Last year Carterton Leisure Centre was fitted with solar panels as part of a £155,000 green scheme.

WODC said at the time that the scheme would raise nearly £160,000 in profits and reduce carbon emissions by 701 tonnes over 20 years.

New hope for treatment of schizophrenia sufferers

ORGANISMS produced by the body to fight infection could be used against the onset of schizophrenia, according to Oxford University researchers.

A study in The Lancet Psychiatry reveals certain kinds of antibodies appear in the blood of a significant percentage of people presenting with a first episode of psychosis.

The study shows the 'NMDAR antibodies' which were previously shown to cause a life threatening inflammation of the brain, are also found in people with early presentations of schizophrenia.

The discovery offers fresh hope for new treatment possibilities for people experiencing psychosis, where a person may experience hallucinations, delusions and disturbed thoughts.

Professor Belinda Lennox from the department of psychiatry at Oxford University and Oxford Health NHS Foundation Trust which led the study recruited 228 people across England including from Oxford.

She said: "The next important step is to work out whether removing the antibodies will treat psychosis. To do this the research team are starting a randomised controlled trial of immune treatment in people with psychosis."

Staff at Georga Springall Homecare have been praised for their work

Care home sets the standard

A CARE home agency in south Oxfordshire rated as 'outstanding' has helped raise the bar nationally

A report published last month by the Care Quality Commission (CQC) praised the service at George Springall Homecare overall for its strong commitment to promoting people's independence and the thoughtfulness of staff

The report also rated the service as 'good' in three areas

The award means that Oxfordshire is now better than the national average for "outstanding" domiciliary care agencies with three per cent given the top rating locally compared to two per cent nationally

A total of 86 per cent of local agencies are rated "good" compared to 82 per cent nationally

Councillor Lawrie Stratford Oxfordshire County Council's cabinet member for adult social care said "It is pleasing to see that we are ahead of the national picture and this excellent result for the George Springall Partnership confirms that. My congratulations go to them on an excellent report that paints a picture of diligent and caring work that goes the extra mile for the people receiving care"

BANBURY'S museum is urging people to donate Lego for an exhibition called Brick Wonders.

Know your car's age

THE new '67' car registration plates will hit the road tomorrow—but the tradition of being able to 'read' a number plate is dying out

While Oxford motorists are among the most plate-savvy with 60 per cent able to decipher plates, an average of only 1 in 3 across the rest of the UK can.

Research by car buying site carwow also found just two thirds know that the numbers indicate age.

Sharing secrets of weight loss

By Eva Astreinidou

A SLIMMER who found confidence after shedding four stone is inviting others who are struggling to shift their weight to a support group this month.

Clint White is launching his own Slimming World group in Botley on September 7 with the aim of helping others achieve their dream weight.

After joining his local group in Witney six months ago, Mr White dropped from 17 and a half stone to 13 and a half stone

Realising the importance of support throughout the weight loss journey, he then decided to train as a consultant for Slimming World at their national academy in Derbyshire

The 28-year-old said. "It all starts with feeling that you're not alone I couldn't have lost four stone without the weekly help encouragement and understanding of my own consultant and group

"As someone who has lost weight myself I know the challenges people can face which is why along with the group I will be there to support every one of my members all the way to their chosen target weight."

As a consultant Mr White will set targets share recipes and fitness tips and work with the group to 'overcome challenges and celebrate success'

Speaking of his own experience he said he had previously tried numerous diets but none of them seemed sustainable

He said: "I thought I was destined to struggle with my weight for the rest of my life but when I came to Slimming World it was different. I never felt like I was on a diet The eating plan encourages you to eat lots of tasty filling foods [and] no foods are banned so there's an deprivation."

Mr White's Slimming World group will be held at the St Peter and St Paul Church Room every Thursday at

Spring into Action

Now's the perfect time to replace your garden fence once and for all Anna Ryder Richardson - Designer and Television Presenter - takes a closer look at Colourfence, the revolutionary low-maintenance system

It's been ten years since I regularly graced TV screens helping transform people's living spaces with MDF and stripped floorboards. Recently it's been more "celebrity muck out" than "celebrity make-over" as I took up the challenge of owning my own Wildlife Zoo in Tenby. In this time I've learnt quite a lot about fences and having researched the various options for my own benefit I thought I would share my knowledge with a wider audience.

The latest design processes mean there is now a tremendous array of fencing products for you to choose from, constructed from a variety of materials. Each has its own attributes, and ultimately it can often come down to a matter of personal preference. For me there was one unique system that stood out as providing the best balance between price and functionality which eradicates fencing problems for good. Or for at least 25 years. Colourfence. For quality value, longevity, aesthetic design, this fencing system ticks all the boxes. Fencing made for the 21st century that will transform the look of your garden which is supplied and fitted by a company whose customer service is as good as the product.

In my view Colourfence is the 'Rolls Royce' of fencing—just without the exclusive price tag. What's more, it's guaranteed to stay in place at up to 130mph winds and is virtually maintenance free.

To find out how the experts from Colourfence might help you, I suggest you call 01865 582 171 and speak to their team.

"I honestly believe that Colourfence is the best general purpose fencing product on the market today!"

Colourfence: The ultimate garden fence?

For many Colourfence is perhaps the ultimate choice. For the last 15 years it's been widely used across the UK and has steadily gained a reputation for its quality. By using their high specification Colorbond steel in the fence structure itself, complemented by the highest level of customer service from accredited Franchisees, Colourfence is now regarded by many as the premier fencing solution in the market. Immune to the rot and resistant to the weather that so quickly effects wooden fences, Colourfence has none of the drawbacks of wood – plenty of additional benefits and what's more it's better value!

Call 01865 582 171 for more information

Q No matter what I treat my wooden fence with - nothing seems to prevent it rotting or looking shabby for very long.

A Treating your fence is a thankless and expensive task. It's also a losing battle. Wood simply wants to rot. Colourfence offers a low-maintenance alternative where by an occasional wash down will keep it looking great for up to 25 years! GUARANTEED!†

Every gardener knows that it pays to plan ahead. If you are one of the thousands of people who watched helpless as winter winds battered their garden, it will not be a surprise that garden fences are almost always the first casualty. Whether you have previously patched, painted or simply prayed to keep your fence going, there's no escaping the fact that timber fences will always fall victim to the weather. With Colourfence you can put your garden straight once and for all. Colourfence is scientifically tested and cyclonically rated to ensure when professionally installed, it can withstand wind gusts of up to 130mph. Once it's up – it stays up and is guaranteed to look good year after year. Safe, extra secure and hassle free – you will NEVER need to paint it, treat it or patch it. An occasional hose down will be all you need do to keep it in top condition for years to come. In fact the system is so durable that Colourfence will guarantee† their fencing to last at least 25 years. Available in a range of colours to suit any garden, with or without decorative trellis, the highly skilled installation team make short work of their dramatic transformations. Taking sombre out of the Somme

By Samantha McGregor

A STAGE adaptation of the BBC film, The Wipers Times, a satirical newspaper created in the mud and mayhem of the Somme, opens in Oxford next month.

Set in Ypres in the First World War, this production by Private Eye editor Ian Hislop and satirist Nick Newman, tackles the quintessentially British story about what happens when we are faced with death – we laugh at it.

This critically acclaimed play tells the true and extraordinary story of the satirical newspaper created in the trenches of the Somme.

It is interspersed with comic sketches and spoofs from the vivid imagination of those on the front line.

The Wipers Times comes to Oxford Playhouse from September 18 to 23, following a sell-out UK tour in 2016, and a hit run in the West End.

In a bombed out building during the First World War in the Belgian town of Ypres – mispronounced Wipers by British soldiers – two officers discover a printing press and create a newspaper for the troops.

Far from being a sombre journal about life in the trenches they produced a resolutely cheerful subversive and funny newspaper designed to lift the spirits of the men on the frontline.

The Wipers Times reflects the subversive and resolutely [illegible] humour of the Somme

Defying enemy bombardment, gas attacks and the disapproval of many of the top brass, The Wipers Times rolled off the press for two years and was an extraordinary tribute to the resilience of the human spirit in the face of overwhelming adversity.

The Wipers Times is written by Ian Hislop, the well known journalist, satirist, writer, editor of Private Eye and Magdalen College graduate, and Nick Newman, the satirical British cartoonist, comedy scriptwriter and Oriel College graduate.

Tickets for The Wipers Times at Oxford Playhouse start at £15 and are available from the ticket office on 01865 305305 or view oxfordplayhouse.com

Having been a guest at countless nuptials over the years I can honestly say I've seen many changes over the years. The finger buffet has been replaced more often than not with a themed larger than life extravaganza to entertain all in attendance from dusk til dawn.

You only have to look at the wide variety of wedding programmes on TV to leave you asking "where do I begin?"

Before you start poring through all the glossy magazines it's best to sit down with family and friends and discuss what your own wish list, what you as a couple all about and start from there. Of course once you have thought about your style of wedding, your first consideration is the cost, don't start off with big plans and then realise you can't afford them.

With the hospitality business being so competitive there are many options to choose from venue is one of the most important considerations, the distance for all to travel and/or accommodation options for those who live a little further afield. It has been said that if music is the food of love, then play on – both food and music can be what make or break the big day, especially from the guests' point of view.

Sample the food before confirming a booking as there is nothing more embarrassing than being the wedding everyone remembers for the wrong reasons.

If you're not using a wedding planner, a checklist is an essential start working your way through the timeline of things to do according to your priorities and ensure any deadlines are adhered to in terms of alterations to the dress bookings for formal hire and not forgetting delivery of the cake whilst juggling the decorations at the same time basically failing to prepare is preparing to fail epically here.

Your wedding attendants are also key to the success of the day – do you really want a best men who is going to leave you both red faced? And is it necessary to have all 10 of your best friends from primary school as bridesmaids?

Some of our advertisers here may be able to help with your big day, give them a call and say "I do ..."

This is your invitation to view the selection of function rooms available for civil ceremonies, partnerships & wedding receptions. You will have the opportunity to discuss your specific wedding plans with one of our co-ordinators.

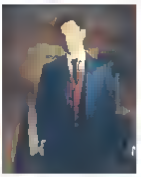
The Changing Face Of Men's Wedding Attire



British wedding habits have changed rapidly during the last few years, and this evolvement continues into 2017

- The average wedding now costs over £16,000
- The trend for cupcakes is falling out of favour, being replaced with trends like cheese towers.
- Purple is the most popular bridesmaids dress colour
- 18% of newlyweds now honeymoon in the UK and 34% in Europe

These changes are also reflected in what the groom is opting to wear on his big day. At The Cotswold Tailor we have noticed big shifts in demand in both our hire department and our bespoke tailoring service, when it comes to wedding suits

In 2015 we rented out not a single frock coat, and demand for morning coats fell significantly. When we did rent out a morning coat, more often than not the groom has opted to move away from traditional wedding waistcoats, and instead replaced these with tweed (see picture right)

Noticeably with both my bespoke and hire wear clients, there has been a shift towards, more tailored three piece, slim-fit, lounge suits, particularly brighter blue shades. With many of my bespoke clients pointing out the benefits of getting frequent use out of the lounge suit post the wedding

Possibly the biggest trend, however, has been in the rising popularity of tweed. As country/natural themed weddings have grown in popularity so too has the demand for both three piece tweed suits, but also the more relaxed look of a pair of chinos paired with tweed waistcoats and tweed jacket. (see picture right)

This look has become so popular that in 2016 we launched an entire new hire wear range dedicated to tweed.

ADVERTORIAL

Simple steps homeowners can take now to protect their assets.

Head of April King Legal Paul King explains why some homeowners are doing too little, too late to protect their hard-earned assets.

Care Cost Fees

"A lot of people are still unaware that if they need care in later life, then assets will be means-tested by the Local Authority to help pay for these services."

"The Local Authority will look to use the assets of a person until they get down to a lower limit of £14,250, when the Local Authority will take over the fees."

"For instance my own grandmother sadly passed away recently at the age of 92. My grandfather had died many years earlier and left everything to her."

"When she needed care in the last six years of her life, because my grandfather had left everything to her, the house and all the estate was counted in the Local Authority's means test."

"Our clients tell us, 'We've worked hard all our lives, why should the Local Authority get it all?'"

"Just as she died, she had gone down to that lower limit of £14,250 and that's all her children inherited."

"There are many myths about the steps people can take to protect their assets from being used like this."

"The main one is that a parent should simply sign their house over to the children now, so it won't be taken into consideration for means testing. That's just not true."

"Local Authorities will actually look to see if you've 'deliberately deprived' yourself of an asset by giving property away, going back over any period of time."

"Sometimes people think that if the gift is made seven years prior then the house is safe. This is not so as the seven-year rule only applies to Inheritance Tax and not Local Authority care."

"The solution is for couples to simply not leave everything to each other in the first place."

"What my grandfather could have done is leave his half of the house in trust to his children, stating that they couldn't have it while his wife, my grandmother was still alive. We call these Property Trust Wills."

"If my grandfather had left his half of the house in trust to the children then when my grandmother subsequently received care in her later life she would only have been means tested on her own half of the house, but my grandfather's half would have been safe."

"Why should he have to contribute his half when he didn't receive any care?"

"The important factor is that couples need to act in advance. Once one party dies or loses mental capacity, through a stroke for example, then they are no longer in a position to do this legitimate and straightforward type of planning."

"It is therefore important for couples to act now even if they may not foresee care fees being an issue."

Paul goes on to explain that most clients he sees are surprised to learn remarriage usually cancels a Will and makes the spouse next in line to inherit, ahead of their own children! Protecting your half of the house in this way, he suggests, ensures that your children ultimately inherit when the survivor dies.

"Had my grandmother remarried after the death of my grandfather the whole estate could have passed sideways out of the family," says Paul.

Lasting Power of Attorney

Paul explains how people often get confused thinking that, because they have made a Will, their executors can also deal with assets if there is illness, stroke or some other form of incapacity while they are still alive.

"Everyone should actually have two documents – a Will that deals with their estate on death, and a Lasting Power of Attorney that deals with their estate during their lifetime," he says.

"There are two types of Lasting Power of Attorney – one deals with finance, the other deals with health and welfare."

"In many ways it's similar to a passport, a document that's registered now and one which can be physically handed to the attorneys should the need arise."

"It allows the attorneys, perhaps the children, to deal with the banks and pension companies etc should their parent become incapacitated, but also to deal with matters such as where the parent should be living and how they should receive care."

"Your attorneys, again perhaps your children, must legally act in your best interests at all times."

"You can choose a number of attorneys to act, either jointly or independently, and April King advises on the various options available."

"Couples are often surprised to discover that even joint bank accounts can be frozen until the bank sees sight of a Lasting Power of Attorney document."

"Having a Lasting Power of Attorney removes the burden on children should ill health happen further down the line."

"It helps a family deal with bank accounts and so on during a parent's lifetime and ceases on death."

"Crucially, you have to complete a Lasting Power of Attorney while you are still in good mental health."

"If someone becomes ill through say, a stroke or dementia, this option is lost and the family would have to apply for a Deputyship Order from the Court of Protection – a drawn out and expensive process."

"It is therefore a good idea for clients to plan ahead and remove any future burden from the family."

"Once again, all adults should be thinking of this, particularly when there are children or a business involved."

"It's not just something to think about when you get older, that's the challenge for us."

"People think, 'I'm not ill, why do I need to make a Power of Attorney?' But they're missing the point. This is a document that has to be done in advance."

Paul King, Head of April King Legal

"The Lasting Power of Attorney remains in place until you die unless you want to cancel it."

"Once it's registered, you don't have to worry if you then develop some debilitating illness. A burden has been removed from the family at an already difficult time."

Bloodline Trust Wills

The majority of April King's clients have already made standard 'Mirror Wills' with other firms before approaching the Firm. A Mirror Will is when a couple leave everything to each other on the first death, then to the children when the second partner dies. But modern family life means these type of Wills leave a lot to chance.

Explains Paul. "If I have a Mirror Will leaving everything to my wife and she remarries or goes into care after my death then either the new husband or the Local Authority are likely to inherit most if not all, of my estate ahead of my children."

"Even if my children are named in my Mirror Will, it is by no means certain that they will inherit anything."

"Once again, this is because a remarriage would cancel the Will my wife had previously made with me and make the new husband next-of-kin.

"This often comes as a big shock to my clients who had perhaps thought that all was in order and that the family bloodline would one day inherit."

"The same is true for thinking that their children and/or grandchildren will one day benefit under a Mirror Will."

"If any of your children should die leaving everything to their husband or wife and that son-in-law or daughter-in-law should then remarry, then your grandchildren would be the ones to lose out under the line of inheritance."

"Worse still, someone else's grandchildren would be in line to receive the benefit of all your years of hard work."

"I've experienced this in my own family and I'm sure most people have had similar experiences or heard of someone who has."

"Bloodline Trust Wills give greater protection to your children."

"These type of Wills not only give your children complete control and access to the inheritance they receive from you, they also grant added protection from the twists and turns of modern family life."

"The wording in these Wills states that any money left over on their demise must pass to any children born of them – your grandchildren."

Who Cares?

Have you ever considered how rewarding it could be to work in the area of social care?

As September approaches families across the county are preparing for the new term small children are heading off to school for the first time in crisp new uniforms and older children moving upwards through the years and even leaving for college It is a time of change for many

There are some changes here at Day and Nightcare Assistance too and it s always sad to see team members leave us even when we know how excited they are to be moving to the seaside

This month however we're very proud to wave goodbye to several of our care workers! This is because, having enjoyed their time supporting clients in the community they are moving on to opportunities in which they will continue to use the experience and skills they have developed working with us and we wish them the very best in their onwards careers as a paramedic in nursing physiotherapy and occupational therapy as well as within managerial roles in the social care sector

Many people enjoy looking after and helping others yet many feel that they didn t make the most of their time in school and have missed their chance to have a fulfilling career based on these caring values Fortunately it is never too late to move into a worthwhile role and working as a home support worker proves for many to be wonderfully heart-warming As one of our team said recently The best feeling of happiness is when you are happy because you have made somebody else happy'

Too often we under estimate the power of a touch a smile a kind word a listening ear an honest compliment.

These are the smallest acts of caring which have the potential to turn a life around.

Care-giving is a constant learning experience and working in social care can also be a very valuable starting point for many roles in the health and social sector As a care worker with Day and Night care Assistance you can choose to work towards Diplomas in Health and Social Care (Levels 2 and 3) which are great stepping stones If you then want to develop yourself further into managerial roles within social care or elsewhere. And working as a home support worker is a great way to help support yourself through a degree course or whilst you are working towards other qualification. because we support our clients from seven in the morning until ten at night we can offer part-time hours to fit around college commitments

And if you are interested to find out more about any of the opppr tunities above. please just drop me a line on esther@danacare co.uk.

Day and Nightcare Assistance – providing care across the whole of Oxfordshire

Are you interested in becoming a care-worker, either part-time, full-time or even to live-in, helping older people to stay living comfortably at home?

We're expanding locally and have offices in Oxford, Banbury, Wantage and Witney so wherever you live, we'd love to hear from you.

You'll get

- Comprehensive training

Peugeot 508 SW GT Line BlueHDi 120 Auto

Good all rounder and not bad looking

By Tony Yates

THIS month's road test puts me in the driving seat of the Peugeot 508 SW GT Line. On first appraisal the 508 SW is a great looking estate with some wonderful sweeping lines.

This takes me back to when designers actually tried to make a car look different or by not copying what the next guy was doing – also judging by the look of the SW – they have managed to push the 'good looking' envelope that little bit more – whilst designing a pretty sweet looking estate that even the most hard lined Volvo estate buyer would find difficult to ignore.

Of course it's all done on super computers today and there's probably not a single pencil in sight. But, I would still like to think that a bunch of designers got together one evening in the local pub and really thrashed out what a good looking estate car should look like.

Well judging by what I have seen so far I think they might have just made the 508 pretty much perfect in that department.

On the road

It's quite firm into the corners but very well balanced. As you would expect for a GT it's set very low and when you add low profile tyres at each corner – you start to feel every single bump and pothole but it is what it is and that's something that comes with running large rims with performance tyres.

Power & efficiency

The 508 SW I had on test was powered by a 1560cc diesel engine that has 120BHP on tap which also happens to boast a very respectable top speed of 123mph, plus a 0-62 time of 11.2 seconds. Fuel consumption is also very good with a combined figure of 67.3 mpg.

A big plus point for this car though is its 300Nm of torque which allows it to pull very well from pretty much any gear thanks to a brilliant 6 speed auto matic gearbox that does a proper job of changing up and down the gears at a decent rate with minimal fuss. Then there are the brakes which feel good and firm and will stop you as good as the best of the best.

Interior & technology

The interior is of a good standard – with lots of chrome fittings and clear dials. But, you are also getting good value for money in terms of standard equipment like, ABS/ESP/EBA, driver & front passenger front and side airbags, iPod/MP3 connection, LED daytime running lights, air conditioning, six speakers, steering wheel mounted audio control and parking sensors.

Additionally on the inside you also get a tidy amount of media equipment to keep you happy like, The Peugeot Media Sound System which includes a 7" multifunction colour touchscreen with satellite navigation, DAB radio tuner and Bluetooth audio with USB connectivity. There is also the addition of 'GT Line' extras like 18" GT Line alloy wheels, full LED headlamps, twin exhaust effect trims and half leather trim with red stitch detail.

Performance, power and hi-tech make this Peugeot estate one to check out

To sum up

I'm going to give the 508 SW four stars in this test, not only because I like its looks but because I believe it's a good family estate car with bags of extras and a decent engine that's tied to a pretty good automatic gearbox.

Drive through the pack 'like a victory' for Massa

Felipe Massa drives his Williams through the pack to finish eighth on Sunday
Picture: Williams Martini Racing

By Adam Flinn

F1

FELIPE Massa described his eighth-place finish at Sunday's Belgian Grand Prix as being "like a victory" having battled through the pack from 16th on the grid.

The Williams driver progressed nicely up the field to pick up an unlikely four points, after the Grove-based team had struggled for pace for much of the weekend.

After a strong start Massa was up to 11th when everyone had made their first pitstops, and it seemed he might fall short of the points-paying positions.

But a collision between the two Force India drivers which brought out the safety car allowed Massa to move up to ninth, which became eighth when Kevin Magnussen went off track at the restart.

Massa said: "I'm very happy with the race. Great start, great overtakes, good pace for the car we struggled with [on Saturday] so I'm really happy and also to be able to keep the cars behind at the end.

"I know eighth place is not a nice position, but the way I drove the car and the way I drove in this race, it was definitely like a victory and I'm so happy."

Massa's team-mate Lance Stroll also produced a better showing on Sunday but just missed out on points as he finished 11th.

Stroll said: "Certainly this was better than Saturday, but we just missed out on the points, which was unfortunate.

"I had damage at the end when overtaking Magnussen at the safety car restart. I broke a piece of the front wing and just had to survive until the end."

After their summer break, the races come thick and fast with the drivers not having to wait long for the next race, the Italian Grand Prix takes place this weekend at Monza.

Another big chunk of points for Hulkenberg

F1

NICO Hulkenberg matched his and Renault's best result of the season with a sixth-place finish at Sunday's Belgian Grand Prix.

The German was involved in an exciting battle with Fernando Alonso and Esteban Ocon in the early laps before getting ahead and managing to pull away.

From then on he was relatively untroubled, benefitting from Max Verstappen's retirement to move up a spot and secure his third sixth-place result of the season.

Hulkenberg said: "It was a solid day, I'm happy and pleasantly surprised.

"The car felt better than Saturday and we were the fourth quickest team out there again, which allowed us to finish in the top six."

There was more bad luck for Jolyon Palmer though, after a gearbox penalty following qualifying left him languishing down the order.

Palmer had been the quicker Renault driver for most of the weekend, but the penalty put him out of position on old tyres and he could only recover to finish 13th.

However there was a nice surprise for Haas in Sunday's Belgian Grand Prix as Romain Grosjean finished in an unexpected seventh place.

The Banbury-based team hadn't been expecting to get much out of the weekend, ont thinking the track would suit their car.

Grosjean made steady progress from 11th on the grid and found himself running ninth when the two Force Indias collided, elevating him another two spots and securing six points.

It could have been a double points finish for Haas, but a mistake for Kevin Magnussen aff the safety car restart dropped him out of contention.

Magnussen locked up his brakes approaching the final chicane and only narrowly missed piling into the back of his team-mate, and ended up overshooting the corner.

This destroyed the tyres, and Magnussen had to make an extra pitstop for fresh rubber and could only climb back up to 15th.

Disappointed to miss out on points at Silverstone

Moto GP

BRADLEY Smith admitted he was heartbroken after missing out on the points at his home race at Silverstone.

The MotoGP rider from Forest Hill was staring down the barrel of a points-scoring finish at the halfway point of Sunday's race but lost confidence with the grip of the hard front Michelin and ended up in 17th place.

Smith, who last week confessed he needed to start delivering results to keep his Red Bull KTM slot for next season, crossed the line 14 seconds adrift of the points.

The 26-year-old said: "Obviously it's heartbreaking to finish a British GP like this but the intent was there from me and all of the boys in the garage but now we focus on Misano [San Marino on September 10].

"I had a great start and was super aggressive in the opening laps to get myself up the order.

"Then as the race progressed, maybe the tyre choice wasn't the best but with the temperature being a little higher than before maybe we looked at what the others were doing too much."

Team mate Pol Espargaro came home in 11th spot to collect five points following a strong qualifying performance from the KTM RC16 bike.

Not even Esteban Garcia, Smith's new crew chief, could improve the former Tech 3 driver's fortunes.

Nevertheless, team manager Mike Leitner focused on the positives.

He said: "The weekend was good especially as we've never been here before and because Silverstone is very difficult with all the bumps, fast and tight corners too.

"Bradley started with his new crew chief and that in itself isn't easy to start together at this track but it went well. We don't see the results quite yet but it will grow."

InBrief

Success continues

JASON Plato's upturn in form continued as he claimed his fourth British Touring Car Championship podium finish of the season at Rockingham on Sunday.

The Oxford-based driver finished third in race three for Team BMR to add to solid points scored from 10th and fourth place results in races one and two.

Race one was a fairly quiet affair for Plato as he finished where he started, but was able to make up ground in race two as he fought through the pack to finish fourth.

And after starting fourth for race three, Plato was able to take advantage of a collision between Rob Collard and Jack Goff in the late stages to pinch the final podium spot.

It was a good day all round for Team BMR with Plato's team-mates James Cole and Ash Sutton each getting a race win, and the latter taking over at the top of the championship.

Plato said: "We've had a great day, a brilliant day for the team.

"James' win early on was epic and for Ash to get another win and a podium was perfect for him, and we've got to do the best job we can for him until the end of the season.

"If I can't win, the next best thing is for Ash to, and we're going to help him do that."

Plato is up to 10th in the championship standings with two rounds remaining, the next at Silverstone on September 17.

Steady Eddie

EDDIE Pepperell put in a solid performance to finish in a tie for 28th at the Made in Denmark tournament over the weekend.

The Abingdon golfer finished on seven under par after producing a steady run of scores over the four days.

He started the tournament with a level par 71 following that with a 69 on Friday that included an eagle and three birdies.

Another eagle on Saturday saw Pepperell post 68 on Saturday, before hitting 69 on Sunday without dropping a shot.

He finished 12 shots behind tournament winner Julian Suri who won by an impressive four shots over David Horsey.

Stars ready to go

OXFORD City Stars are raring to get back on the ice after finalising their roster ahead of the 2017/18 campaign.

Head coach Kenny Redmond completed his squad ahead of the NIHL South 2 opener at Guildford Phoenix on September 16 with the addition of three players and a coach.

Oxford-born Josh Oliver has re-signed for another year, while youngsters Will Harrison and Theo Bundock have been promoted to the first team.

Scott Gough, who made 232 appearances for the Stars between 1985 and 2006 across a number of spells, has joined the backroom staff as assistant first team coach.

A long-term friend of Redmond, Gough was voted last year as the club's all-time legend.

Playing 'nice' football is not enough

By George Welch

Oxford City

NOT even a mini early-season shake-up could turn Oxford City's fortunes around as the Hoops packed up a solitary point from the bank holiday weekend fixtures.

They drew 1-1 at home to Welling United on Saturday and lost 3-2 at newly-promoted Chippenham Town on Monday.

Following an inquest into the 7-1 embarrassment at Dartford the previous week, City boss Mark Jones reshuffled his pack by recruiting two and cutting two players from his squad ahead of the weekend.

In came goalkeeper and Oxford United loanee Jack Stevens and Forest Green Rovers midfielder Rob Sinclair. Going the other way were keeper Craig Hill and defender Guri Demuria.

But Jones couldn't hide his disappointment in the wake of his side's fourth defeat of the National League South season on Monday.

He said: "It's quite raw. It's never easy to take.

"We've got a very disappointed dressing room in there again but we've got to defend better as a team.

"I'm not going to criticise just our back players – everything we do, we do together and at times we're far too open as a team.

"We don't want to just be a nice footballing side that finishes 14th/15th place because nobody wants that – at the moment that's what we're in danger of doing."

A debut goal from Sinclair on the stroke of half time looked to have secured all the points against Welling on Saturday.

But with just 10 minutes remaining, skipper Lee Henderson conceded a penalty and was sent off following an incident with Jack Parkinson.

Bradley Goldberg stepped up and confidently dispatched the penalty to earn a share of the spoils.

And two days later City were conceding even more goals.

A Henderson own goal gave Chippenham an early lead but Oxford were back on level terms on 10 minutes through a classy Zac McEachran free kick.

James Guthrie restored the Bluebirds' lead on 17 minutes and Andy Sandell extended that margin midway through the second half.

Matt Paterson converted from the spot on 65 minutes but Chippenham hung on for maximum points.

Puritans extend winning run with 5-0 thrashing

Banbury United

BANBURY United made it five wins out of five after following up their 2-1 victory against Bishop's Stortford on Saturday with a 5-0 demolition of Dunstable Town on Monday.

The Puritans sit top of the Southern Premier League with Kettering Town as the only two sides to have won every game so far this season.

Saturday's match was a hard-fought affair with Bishop's Stortford taking the lead on 33 minutes as Jason Williams fired past Jack Harding from a tight angle.

It didn't take long for Banbury to get back on level terms however and five minutes later as Charlie Hawtin set up Jefferson Louis to strike low into the far corner of the net.

And after both sides had chances to take the lead, Banbury finally did so 20 minutes from the end as substitute Ravi Shamsi pulled off a sensational bicycle kick to secure the three points.

Monday's match away to Dunstable was much more one-sided, as the Puritans bossed proceedings throughout the match.

It took a while for them to score though having to wait until the 37th minute before Louis fired home from six yards out.

The second came six minutes after the break as Tom Winters produced a fierce shot from inside the penalty area into the far corner.

And the floodgates opened with just over 20 minutes remaining as Darren Pond, Conor McDonagh and then Pond again scored to complete the rout.

Banbury turn their attention to the first qualifying round of the FA Cup this Saturday, where they host Tiverton Town.

Green brace secures points for Abingdon

Hellenic round-up

NEWLY-PROMOTED Abingdon United extended their unbeaten run to five matches as they continue to enjoy life in the Hellenic Premier Division.

The Division 1 West champions had to share the points in a 2-2 draw at Burnham on Saturday but secured all three of them with a 1-0 win over Fairford Town at the Northcourt on Monday.

Joe Green hit a brace against Burnham while Joe Hartley scored the only goal of the game against Fairford as United climbed up to an encouraging fifth in the table.

Wantage Town's campaign is finally up and running after chalking up back-to-back wins over the bank holiday weekend.

After losing two of their opening three matches, the Freds propelled themselves into the top half of the table with victories over Ascot United and Thatcham Town.

Ryan Markham, Jack Dunmall and Stephen Robertson all scored first half goals as visiting Wantage beat Ascot 3-1 on Saturday.

And Steve Alman's side followed that up with an impressive 2-1 win over Thatcham Town at Alfredian Park to end the visitors' 100 per cent record.

Mark James opened the scoring on 15 minutes but the Kingfishers struck back with 14 minutes remaining through Shane Cooper-Clarke.

Jack Powell sealed all three points for Wantage with a well-crafted goal in the final minute.

Elsewhere Oxford City Nomad's miserable season continued as they conceded at least two goals for the fourth game running.

The Oxford City development side lost 2-0 at Flackwell Heath on Saturday but collected a point in a 2-2 draw with Brackley Town Saints two days later.

Railwaymen back on track after two weekend wins

Didcot Town

DIDCOT Town are up to second in the Evo-Stik South West league after chalking up two wins over Cirencester and Kidlington.

The Railwaymen were on track for a draw away against Cirencester on Saturday before substitute Seth Humphries popped up with a stoppage time winner to claim a 2-1 victory.

Daddy had fallen behind in the 19th minute when Alan Griffin spectacularly volleyed home Jack Watt's flick from the edge of the area.

This seemed to wake Daddy up and they equalised with their first real opportunity with Louis Joyce volleying on the half hour mark.

In what was a very open game, both sides continued to attack but in the 90th minute Humphries was released and ran towards goal before firing the ball into the roof of the net.

At home on Monday Didcot scraped past local rivals Kidlington 1-0 with George Reid claiming a 77th minute winner.

Kidlington had gone into the Diddy game on the back of a narrow 3-2 home reverse to Bristol Manor Farm, despite taking the lead.

Darius Browne and Eric Odihiambo were the scorers but the Farmy Army scored a 95th minute winner.

Elsewhere, North Leigh picked up their first win of the season with a 2-1 home win over Salisbury on Saturday. But the winning feeling was fleeting as they lost 3-2 at Evesham United on Tuesday.

In the Evo-Stik South East, Thame United were badly beaten in their two fixtures.

They fell to a 4-2 away loss at Hayes & Yeading on Saturday and on Monday a 5-0 defeat at home by AFC Dunstable ended their miserable weekend.

Every point will count come the end of the season

By George Welch

BEFORE the League One campaign kicked off at the start of August, Pep Clotet the Oxford United boss highlighted the importance of picking up points even when playing poorly

He said the most important thing he wanted to install into his players was the ability to convert some of last season s 17 defeats into draws

If the Spaniard can do that, the theory goes, then United who fell four points short of the League One play-offs last campaign, will be competing with three other teams for a place in the second tier come May

After 46 games depending on how the season goes, the former Swansea City and Leeds United No 2 could point to Saturday s share of the spoils against Shrewsbury Town as an illustration of his attitude

Clotet admitted his team weren't at their best against the Shrewsbury was keen to focus on the positives and, in particular, the point that keeps them in the top third of the early season table

He said "We are all disappointed with the result when you don't take all the points at home.

"But at the same time we know enough about the game to know that every point counts and every point matters At the end of the season little points make the difference and to take five draws instead of five losses that means five more points and that means a lot."

Shrewsbury have been the surprise package of the season so far and were looking to make it four wins from four at the Kassam Stadium.

Clotet, who was expecting a difficult afternoon, added. "It was a tough game for both sides

"They were coming here on a really good moment after a strong start in the league and they thought they could get the win

"We made it as difficult as we could and, even though we did not have a good game, we managed to take a point.

"It s disappointing because you don t win but at the same time you take a point because it s a point when you have a bad game."

OXFORD United laid down the gauntlet after kicking off their Checkatrade Trophy campaign with a shower of goals in a 6-2 win at Stevenage on Tuesday

The U's overcame a sluggish start to blow their League Two opposition away and win in style by recording their biggest away win since 1962

A Rob Hall brace and strikes from James Henry, Joe Rothwell, Jon Obika and Jack Payne gave United the perfect start in a competition in which they have reached Wembley for the last two seasons

But Oxford gave their hosts a head start in an underwhelming opening half hour for the U's as Harry Beautyman tucked home within 20 minutes

The Yellows upped their tempo in response and went in at half time ahead thanks to smart finishes from Henry (30) and Hall (43)

Chris Day, Stevenage s 42-year old goalkeeper, is certain to have woken up with back pain the following morning after conceding a flurry of goals in the second half.

Obika (50) Hall (52) and Rothwell (55) put the game to bed in a devastating five minute spell.

A first for the club for Payne (64) made it 6-1 to United, who looked menacing every time they attacked.

United fans were enjoying themselves and sang the scores on his back to Day. Stevenage s number 18

But striker Alex Samuel ruined the fun when he rifled a consolation into the roof of the net on 82 minutes.

U's rue giving Shrews a draw

Gino van Kessel turns the ball in to give United the lead

OXFORD United threw away a 1-0 lead in the final 10 minutes to be held by Shrewsbury Town in a frustrating game at the Kassam Stadium

The U s were sloppy throughout and were penned back for large periods by the Shrews who were one of four teams going into the weekend on maximum points

Gino van Kessel poked the home side ahead against the run of play with 15 minutes remaining following a goalmouth scramble

United upped the tempo and were more threatening after taking the lead—but the Shrews equalised eight minutes later through substitute Stefan Payne.

Pep Clotet s side were fortunate not to fall behind just after the hour when the assistant referee deemed a looping Carlton Morris effort not to cross the line when the ball struck the underside of the bar and bounced away

And Payne squandered the chance to take maximum points back to Shropshire after missing a gilt-edged chance in stoppage time.

Both sides cancelled each other out early on, causing a shortage of goalmouth action in the first half.

Despite this both teams screamed for first half penalties within 60 seconds of each other

First, there were cries for a United spot kick when an overlapping Christian Ribeiro crossed dangerously into the box and defender Mike Williamson fell to the ground

Town went straight up the other end and were unlucky not to be awarded a penalty when Simon Whalley went down after receiving close attention from Ricardinho

Shrewsbury wasted the best chances of the first half and the U s had stopper Simon Eastwood to thank when he kept Jon Nolan out at his near post before Morris blazed over from an Alex Rodman knockdown.

The Yellows remained lacklustre in the second period and struggled at times to get out of their own half.

Salop penned Oxford s backline further and further back and Nolan fired a warning shot, hacking a left footed effort high and wide.

But United woke up on the hour following the introduction of Joe Rothwell and Jon Obika.

U's fans finally had something to shout about when the latter and Ryan Ledson both tested Dean Henderson in the Shrewsbury goal.

The visitors could have taken the lead on 65 minutes when Morris raced through to lob the ball over Eastwood only to see the ball strike the underside of the bar and bounce away Loud appeals for a goal from the Shrewsbury faithful fell on deaf ears

Obika stung the hands of Henderson and, at the other end, Rodman forced Eastwood into a sprawling save as the game opened up

The breakthrough came on 75 minutes when the Shrews failed to clear a corner and van Kessel prodded home via the post.

But Shrewsbury levelled eight minutes later when Payne found space in the box in a similar scramble following a corner that was not properly cleared.

The substitute then wasted a golden opportunity to snatch maximum points for Town deep into injury time.

Ledson: It takes time but we're getting there

MIDFIELDER Ryan Ledson has tipped Oxford United to find their best form after suffering a late setback against Shrewsbury Town on Saturday

Standards have been set high after the U s won their opening two League One games of the season but United hung on for the draw despite taking a 75th minute lead.

Super sub Stefan Payne grabbed his second goal from the bench in as many games to rescue a point for the Shrews

And the striker could have maintained the visitor s 100 per cent league record deep into stoppage time but the 26-year-old fired wide

It's not been a bad start for Oxford who have collected seven points from four games but Ledson acknowledged the Yellows weren t at their best.

However the former Everton man who turned 20 earlier this month is confident it will all come together for Pep Clotet s men.

He said "It will take a little bit of time and I th nk it was the same last year I don t think we started playing properly gelling together until about October

"It's a long season people need to remember that there's 46 games and every point is going to be vital If you can t win games then don t lose them."

Ledson, a pivotal figure in the heart of the Oxford midfield added "I m disappointed because I know what this team is about.

"I watch these players every day in train ng and for me we should be winning games of football especially at the Kassam with the influence of our own fans "

He added "You take seven points from the first four games. If we get three points against MK Dons [on Saturday] away 10 points after five games you are very happy with that."
